

ENGLISH LANGUAGE & LITERATURE

BEFORE YOU START

- Key Set Texts to purchase: Frankenstein by Mary Shelley. Please buy this copy. (*It must be the original 1818 version of the story not the 1831 edition).
- Key Watch: BBC iPlayer - The Read - Series 2: Frankenstein
- Key Website: 100 Commonly Used Terms in English Grammar \(thoughtco.com\)

Look up, define and learn the following terms on the next slide.

LITERACY TASK

- Read Frankenstein

As you embark on your journey as a literary critic, it is helpful to have one full reading of the initial set text completed before you start the course. This means our lessons will be more analytical and less descriptive- a key skill we seek to develop.

- Find a synopsis of Frankenstein.
- Complete a storyboard to illustrate what happens in the novel.
- Choose 12 significant episodes.

KNOW THIS TASK

Paris Anthology

Studying the Paris Anthology, means you will have to discuss 'representations of Paris' as presented by the different authors within a variety of text types.

- Create a poster/mood board/mind-map/presentation on what you think the 'Representations of Paris' are
- You could include: people, places, culture, society, fashion, food, music, icons, history, politics

Research and list 6 English-based careers

Choose three from the list and outline the role and expectations in more detail

Review those three to show why you would be interested or suitable for that career

CAREERS TASK

DO THIS TASK

Term	Definition	Write an Example:
Onomatopoeia
Alliteration
Assonance
Sibilance
Lexis/Lexical choice
Denotation/ Connotation
Metaphor
Simile
Synonym/Antonym
Syntax
Verb
Noun
Adjective
Pronoun
Adverb
Clause
Imperative
Tripartite Listing
Discourse Marker
Semantic field
Low frequency lexis/High frequency lexis
Colloquial language

Using these terms confidently when analysing a text will be vital to your success on the Language and Literature course.

Look up, define and learn the following terms by producing a document that can go in your A-level folder at the start of the course